I have been on the Iowa Law School faculty since 1962. During that period I have engaged in extensive service to the Iowa state government, the governments of other states, and the Federal Government, as well as to the legal profession. All of this service has been related to the area of my primary expertise - administrative law - and most of it has been related to administrative law reform, the creation and improvement of fair, efficient, and workable government administrative procedures. All of my service activities have been closely intertwined with and directly benefited my teaching and research, so my teaching and research directly benefited from my service activities and my service activities directly benefited from my teaching and research.
